ABSTRACT

This expanded and updated edition of the ERIC/CRESS American Indian Education Directory was compiled through a telephone survey and follow-up mail survey. Sections contain entries for: (1) 20 national Indian organizations; (2) 13 national and regional programs and information centers that benefit American Indians and Alaska Natives; (3) 5 regional resource and evaluation centers that provide technical assistance and training related to Title V projects; (4) multifunctional resource centers and evaluation assistance centers providing services in 16 regional service areas under the Bilingual Education Act of 1984 (Title VII); (5) 14 state Indian education organizations; (6) state department of education staff responsible for American Indian education in all 50 states; (7) 7 American Indian journals; and (8) relevant Congressional committees. Most entries include address, phone number, and contact person; some contain a short description. (SV)

A DIRECTORY OF ORGANIZATIONS AND ACTIVITIES IN AMERICAN INDIAN EDUCATION

This directory is an interim update of the ERIC/CRESS American Indian Education Directory published in November, 1988. It includes new information forwarded to the Clearinghouse by staff of listed organizations. With the exception of national organizations, however, no attempt was made to verify the information in other entries. A comprehensive new edition of this directory is tentatively planned for 1993.

In originally preparing this directory, the ERIC/CRESS staff at the Appalachia Educational Laboratory conducted a telephone survey to verify names, addresses, and telephone numbers, eliminating organizations which failed to respond to the telephone survey and adding organizations suggested by a review of the literature. They followed up the telephone survey with a written survey to verify brief organizational descriptions and solicit any changes, as well as to solicit such descriptions from organizations recently added to the directory.

The American Indian Registry for the Performing Arts is a non-profit organization, established in 1983, that functions as a central registry for North American Indians (including Canada and Alaska) in the performing arts. Our purpose is to encourage the film and television industry to employ Indian people in all creative and technical aspects of the business. Our goal is to help change the sterotypical Indian character created by "old" Hollywood. We hope to inspire writers, directors and producers to be accurate and realistic in their portrayals of Indian people and above all to use Indian talent. The registry is based in Los Angeles, but it's work embraces the whole of Indian country. A primary aim is to promote employment and creative opportunities in places like Hollywood and New York, but we are also working to generate involvement on the reservation and tribal community levels.

The overall mission of the NIEC is to strengthen the communication flow between American Indian tribes and the national education community. Currently in its developmental phase, the NIEC acts as a central repository for American Indian cultural curriculum and related retrospective materials. The NIEC plans to develop a resource sharing network among the university, the national education community, and the national Indian community, focusing on quality American Indian/Alaska Native curriculum and research. The NIEC has plans to establish four major components: 1) Specialized American Indian cultural curriculum and related retrospective library materials collection -- Materials acquired from federal, national, state, local, and tribal organizations will be the foundation for this collection. 2) NIEC database -- Three databases shall be developed over a five-year period, a) the NIEC library collection database, a bibliographic listing of American Indian/Alaska Native curriculum and other relevant materials, including dissertations; b) the NIEC On-Line Directory, listing specialized American Indian/Alaska Native library collections and curriculum development programs throughout the U.S.; and c) the NIEC On-Line Catalog, listing the Indian educational holdings of specialized American Indian/Alaska Native library collections throughout the U.S., which allows the NIEC to refer users to material available from libraries in their own locales. 3) The NIEC Computerized Resource Sharing Network allows communication between the NIEC and libraries or programs in other university libraries, the national education community, and the national Indian community, if they have access to compatible computer systems. 4) NIEC computerized Information-Dissemination -- For institutions or schools without access to computers, information shall be made available in the form of bibliographic/resource listings of Indian education materials/programs. The NIEC requests copies of existing American Indian/Alaska Native curriculum materials and program information.

MULTIFUNCTIONAL RESOURCE CENTERS AND EVALUATION ASSISTANCE CENTERS

The MRCs and EACs are funded under the Bilingual Education Act of 1984 (Title VII of Public Law 98-511). The MRCs provide technical assistance and training to practitioners involved in the education of limited-English-proficient students. Each MRC provides services in a designated geographic region. In addition, each MRC is responsible for collecting and disseminating information on a specific topic, which it shares with other MRCs. The EACs provide technical assistance and training in Title VII program evaluation and in assessing the needs and competencies of limited-English-proficient children. Some EAC evaluation training and workshop materials are available for distribution.
